“ Tho there were so many miles between us we still shared a love that could only be understood by sisters. We had a lot of ups and downs but nothing could break the bond we have as sisters. I say "have" because it will never die.

I remember down the highway, there was an old barn and on Fridays my sister would take me and my friend Eddie to square dance. I don't remember what it was called but all the Husteds and friends would gather outside and when they called square dance, we would all be inside. I was only 12 to 15 years but belonged to the bunch. I love you Betty.
