

Vashti Nichole Brown

December 6, 1986 - February 13, 2016

Vashti Nichole Brown, a lifelong resident of Dayton, Ohio, died unexpectedly on February 13, 2016 at the tender age of 29. She was very loving and kind hearted to all her family and her friends, and wished the best for everyone she knew and met. Her life was full of joy and happiness as well as adventure and excitement - she thoroughly enjoyed life. And she lived her life to its fullness. I remember one day she was going hiking in a nearby park, I ask if I could tag along, Vashti would say "if you can keep up old man" smiling but serious- I stayed home that day!

Vashti is survived by her parents: Michael Brown & Joan Brown, her brothers David Brown, Jonathan Brown, Samuel Brown, Josephus Brown and her sister Kyanta Brown.

Vashti's relationship with her brothers and her only sister was absolutely amazing! They loved her so much and would do anything for her. She was their best friend; she was their counselor and advocate, she was their leader and teacher and loving big sister. Vashti loved her family deeply.

In spite of the age difference the siblings never seemed to waver in their love and dedication to each other. Many who knew them would gladly proclaim never to have seen brothers and sisters as close as what they witnessed in these! And Vashti was their leader!

Vashti (Nichole) was also survived by her loving Grandmother Jacqueline King of Brooklyn, NY,

Also one niece Namiah Brown of Middletown, Ohio and A host of Uncles, Aunties, Cousins. And also very special Cousin, Jamila A. Brown of Atlanta, Ga.
